

These three U.S. Marines are fellow students of SWAT Officer Jim Wagner doing live-fire team movement drills at the MAC range at Camp Pendleton, California. Officer Wagner, along with two other Costa Mesa Police SWAT officers were sent to this school on official city time and qualified them to run live-fire courses on the MAC range. This photo, taken by Officer Wagner, was in October 1998. All training was done dry-fire first, and then live-fire after comments from Marine instructors. This training also included live fragmentation hand grenade training in a different building on the site.

