

Jim Wagner was invited by Major Avi Nardia (Israel Defense Force Reserve) to teach Reality-Based Personal Protection exercises and conflict drills to entry level soldiers at the Wingate Institute (the military side of the institute known as Baghdad 8). Jim Wagner also assisted Major Nardia on the Israeli Special Forces selection process. This is where a variety of physical tests and tasks are given to entry level soldiers and are evaluated to see which ones qualify for Special Forces units. This process is very different from other Western militaries. This photo was taken in December of 2003.
